CADETS IN THE FIELD

Annual Prize Drill of Washington High School Regiment.

THE ROOTERS OUT IN FORCE

Eastern, Western and Tech. Companies Competing Today.

CENTRAL AND BUSINESS NEXT

Large Crowd in American League

Park at the Opening—Company Rosters.

"Who will win the drill?" is the query of every one out at the American League Park this afternoon as the companies one after another file before the judges and go through the required movements.

Which school will win, Eastern, Central, Western, Business or Technical? Will the ribbons go to the first, second or third battalion? Will it be won today or tomorrow? Every pupil in the schools has an answer to these questions, and today the cheering crowds under their respective school colors fill the grand stand and overflow the bleachers and every one is confident that his chosen company will bring honor home to the school.

H. R. Standiford,
Colonel of High School Regiment.

The red ribbon of honor and the prize pennant is in the hands of Company F, Eastern High School, but determination is in the faces of Technical and Western to wrest it from that company.

The judges, Capt. Earl I. Brown, Company F, 2d Battalion, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A.; First Lieut. Julian L. Schley, Company G, 2d Battalion, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A.; First Lieut. Richard C. Moore, Company F, 2d Battalion, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., have a delicate and difficult task before them, and after the decision of today, which will not be announced, there are six other competitors to come upon the field tomorrow.

Eastern, Western and Tech. are determined that the drill shall be won today, but Business and Central smile and say that good drilling will not be seen until tomorrow.

Capt. Wm. Bland, Company B, Western.

Company D of Tech.
